

Muskan Dhamuria is a confident and articulate young woman who possesses strong cognitive ability. Her passion and thirst for learning was evident in her participation in many varied academic and non-academic activities over her two years as a Junior College student in Temasek Junior College (TJC) from 2022 to 2023. She was also a student of the Integrated Programme at Temasek Junior College (TJC) from 2018 to 2021. This programme offers a broad-based curriculum anchored in innovative teaching and learning approaches. During their four years in the Integrated Programme, students acquire a basket of skills - critical thinking, logical thinking, and Design Thinking - in the Skills and Knowledge modules in their first and second year. In the third year, students further apply their Design Thinking skills to a given problem in the Innovation and Research Project week. The skills gained from this programme contributed to Muskan obtaining a Distinction in Project Work at the junior college level.

Muskan's multi-faceted academic interests spurred her on to participate in and attain success in the Australian Mathematics Competitions and Singapore Junior Biology Olympiad during her tenure as an IP student. In her JC years, she continued to distinguish herself in the Singapore Math Kangaroo Competition and tried her hand in the Queen's Commonwealth Essay Competition in 2022, for which she earned a Bronze award. Having also more recently taken an interest in Informatics and Robotics, she performed creditably in both the Bebras International Challenge on Informatics and Computational Thinking as well as the International Design Thinking with Robotics and Computational Thinking Competition. Muskan's non-academic pursuits are equally wide-ranging. A versatile dancer, she is proficient in Classical Ballet, Bharatnatyam, Cha-cha and Hip-Hop, and acquired professional certifications for the former two from both the Royal Academy of Dance and the Bharathi Natyakala Academy.

Apart from her wide-ranging talents, Muskan was the Secretary of the TJC Indian Cultural Society (ICS). Besides taking charge of attendance during meetings, she played a critical role in reinvigorating the ICS Instagram page. Through creating interactive posts and stories, she made the page more media friendly and informative, thereby tripling its readership and initiated and maintained contacts with ICS counterparts from other colleges, as well as with the Singapore Indian Development Association (SINDA). For the ICS Deepavali celebrations, she spent considerable time and effort preparing a Rangoli tutorial video together with the drama script and these were well received by both teachers and students. Her creativity was also apparent as the posters she prepared for the ICS booth at the Co-Curricular Fair were tastefully constituted.

Muskan was also a dedicated member of the TJC Infocomm Club, which provided Audio-Visual (AV) and Photography services to the college community. Having progressed immeasurably in both her AV technical and photographic skills, she contributed substantively to various college events such as the morning assembly programme as well as the Chinese Drama performance, being adept in selecting the appropriate lighting and sound configuration as required for the various occasions.

A service-minded student who always showed keenness to actively contribute to the community, Muskan served as a volunteer at 3 organisations: Food from the Heart, Giving.sg and SG Cares Volunteer Centre @ Ang Mo Kio, Punggol and Sengkang. Muskan was the Executive Committee member of the ICS who spearheaded the club's Values-In-Action project. In collaboration with the college, she devised and planned a programme with the Siglap Community Centre to improve the digital literacy of the elderly. The success of this collaboration was gratifying for Muskan and validated her continued efforts to help fellow members of society.

Muskan's strong relational skills, together with her cheerful disposition, makes her an empathetic friend who is well-liked and trusted by her peers. While she is an effective communicator who can influence others positively, she also sensitively shows care to others when they are facing difficulties or disappointments. These excellent qualities, together with her exemplary attitude and strong drive to excel puts her in good stead to succeed in the future.
